There Are 20 Ways To Have Driver's License Revoked

RULES OF THE ROAD: The average person believes the only reason a person's driver's license is taken away from him is because he has been convicted of driving while intoxicated.

'Tain't so.

Timmo was looking through Charles F. Carpentier's Rules of the Road yesterday afternoon when it looked like a rain might come up and I didn't want to get out, and I found 20 reasons listed for revocation of a driver's license.

* * *

Mr. Carpentier, the secretary of state, lists seven ways to be sure of losing your driver's license and 13 more ways in which you might lose it.

The ways in which you WILL lose your driver's license:

If convicted of manslaughter or reckless homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle;

If convicted of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor;

If convicted of driving while under the influence of narcotic drugs;

If convicted of any felony under the law of any state for the federal government in the commission of which a motor vehicle was used;

If convicted of leaving the scene of an accident involving death or personal injury;

If convicted of perjury or the making of a false affidavit or statement under oath to the secretary of state under the Drivers License Act, or under any other law relating to the ownership and operation of motor vehicles.

If convicted upon three charges of reckless driving within a period of 12 months.

* * *

And you MAY lose your driving privilege if:

You have committed an offense for which mandatory revocation is required upon conviction;

You have been convicted within any 12 month period of three or more offenses against traffic regulations governing the movement of vehicles so as to indicate a disrespect for traffic laws and a disregard for the safety of other persons on the highways;

You are convicted of three charges of speeding within any 12-month period;

You are habitually reckless or negligent in the operation of a motor vehicle;

You unlawfully operate a motor vehicle and cause or contribute to an accident resulting in death or injury to any person;

You allow an unlawful or fraudulent use of your license or permit;

You are convicted of an offense in another state which, if committed in Illinois, would be grounds for suspension or revocation;

You refuse or fail to submit to an examination as provided in the Drivers License Act, or fail to pass such examination successfully;

You are found to be ineligible for a license;

You make a false statement or knowingly conceal a material fact in applying for any license or permit;

You fail to comply with the restrictions imposed on your driving privileges;

You fail to satisfy within 30 days any final judgment rendered against you as a result of a motor vehicle accident;

You wilfully fail, refuse or neglect to make a report of a traffic accident involving death, personal injury or property damage of $100 or more.

* * *

There you are: Twenty ways to save money by not being able to operate a motor vehicle.

Notice that rhyme? Pulse stir and ulster—pardon me, I mean ulcer.

Airlift to Indochina Cuts Rest Leaves For Soldiers in Korea

TOKYO (U.P.)—Rest and recuperation leaves in Japan for U. S. soldiers in Korea have almost stopped during the past month, apparently because of the U. S. airlift to Indochina, it was announced today.

A U. S. Army statement said the number of soldiers arriving daily by air to begin five-day holidays has fallen from about 1,000 to 150. The Army is trying to arrange sea transportation for about 300 men a day as a partial replacement for reduced air space.

Propose Wire-Tap Power for FBI Director

Opposition Mounts To Administration 'Anti-Traitor' Bill

By United Press

The House Republican leadership proposed today that Congress give FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover complete authority to tap telephone wires and present evidence so obtained in court cases against alleged spies and traitors.

GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.) sprang the new proposal on the House as opposition mounted to the original form of the administration's so-called "anti-traitor" bill. But Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N. Y.), who sponsored the administration version, said he opposes Halleck's proposal.

The original bill would legalize wire-tap evidence in national security cases if the taps were authorized by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. Democrats, with some Republican help, were pushing a substitute to lodge that authority with the federal courts instead.

Halleck rejected that proposal and then, in a shouting speech, produced his Hoover plan.

Other congressional news:

Wheat: Carroll Boyd, Dumas, Tex., wheat grower, asked Congress to investigate reports that the State Department helped foreign competitors by blocking some overseas sales of U. S. wheat, cotton, and apples. Boyd testified before the House Agriculture Committee against the administration farm price support program. Concerning farm commodity surpluses, he said the State Department was "reliably reported" to have blocked large overseas sales "for some reason."

Files: The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee heard testimony that Navy intelligence files on Communism in the New York Naval District "just disappeared" one weekend in 1944. Several witnesses testified that the files turned up missing but none had any evidence that they were destroyed. William J. O'Hara, New York attorney formerly with naval intelligence, said much of the information in the files was given to the FBI before they disappeared.

Taxes: Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) described as a "poor bargain" a Democratic proposal to levy a $5 or $10 head tax on persons relieved of federal income taxes by increased exemptions. Sen. J. Allen Frear Jr., (D-Del.) made the proposal. He is one of the sponsors of a plan to increase personal income tax exemptions to $800 this year and $1,000 in future years.

Extend Federal Security Plan To Servicemen

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Defense Department has decided to extend the Federal Employe Security Program to servicemen in a move to keep subversives out of the military, it was learned today.

A high defense official said incorporation of parts of the program in military regulations is a key feature of a "comprehensive" new Defense Department directive on the security problem.

The directive was signed by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson Wednesday. He arranged to explain it today to the Senate Armed Service committee.

Wilson ordered the regulation drafted after the Army came under fire for its handling of security cases, notably that of Maj. Irving Peress. Peress, Army dentist from New York, was honorably discharged after he failed to sign a loyalty oath.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged that the Army should have court-martialed him. The Defense Department said there were no legal grounds for this but admitted its methods for handling the Peress and similar cases was far from perfect.

The Eisenhower employe security program was launched last April in an attempt to tighten procedures for handling security risks on the civilian side of the government. While the program covers security risks ranging from subversives to drunks, the emphasis in the military directive is on risks with "loyalty connotations."

.45 Inch Rain Here Last Night

Last night's rain and hail brought .45 inch of precipitation to Harrisburg and the CIPS pumps were running this morning, sending water into the reservoir.

However, the pumping was expected to be short-lived, T. C. Wheeler, CIPS power station superintendent, stated.

Mr. Wheeler said the 14,000 gallons per minute pump was started around 7 a. m. and was expected to pump for about three hours. The 750 gallon pump was started a few minutes later and it and the 3,000 gallon pump, which will be started when there's not enough water for the 14,000 gallon pump, will continue until the water gets too low for pumping.

The Congo pump has been going continuously since Tuesday morning. It pumps 500 gallons a minute.

GOP Candidates Count Assets In Senate Race

CHICAGO (U.P.) — Nine candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination began counting their assets today as Illinois' primary election—the first in the nation this year—drew closer.

With the election only five days away, there was still no clear-cut favorite.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) was unopposed on the Democratic ballot.

The Republican hopefuls, fighting for a chance to run against Douglas in this fall's crucial congressional elections, make up the most crowded senatorial field in Illinois primary history.

Backers of candidate Edward A. Hayes, a past American Legion national commander, said Wednesday night that he would "get one of the largest veterans votes ever cast in this state."

Hayes' headquarters said "Veterans for Hayes" committees had been formed in all Illinois counties.

Chapman Supports Meek

Also trying to catch the veterans' vote was Julius Klein, a National Guard brigadier general who served in World War II. Klein said he could best oppose Douglas, who was himself wounded in World War II while serving as a Marine.

Meanwhile, Lt. Gov. John William Chapman invited candidate Joseph T. Meek to address the Springfield Rotary Club next May as "the Republican nominee for United States senator."

Meek, a well-known lobbyist, Wednesday paid a compliment to GOP precinct workers, calling them "the cement which moulds the foundations of the Republican party."

Chapman's open support of Meek came after Gov. William G. Stratton insisted on an "open primary" with no support from him for any candidate.

The other candidates are Austin Wyman, Lar Daly, John B. Crane, Herbert Geisler, Edgar M. Elbert and Park Livingston.

Illinois Citizens for Eisenhower Chairman Thomas R. McMillen predicted that Wyman, who uses a helicopter to campaign, will win the nomination.

Livingston has the most traditional Illinois political asset of them all. He was born in a log cabin.

Thomas R. McMillen, committee chairman, said that the endorsement of Wyman by the St. Louis Post Dispatch has brought Wyman "new support of substance" in downstate Illinois. The Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Sun-Times also have endorsed Wyman.

The Better Government Assn. in Chicago announceed that a poll of downstate Republican precinct committeemen, to which 25 per cent have responded so far, shows that 399 support Meek, 244 Hayes, 210 Livingston, 27 Wyman, 19 Elbert, 7 Geisler, 5 Klein, 4 Crane and none support Daly.

Spring Enrollment A Record at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. (U.P.) — Spring term enrollment at Southern Illinois University has set an all-time record with nearly 26 per cent more resident students than a year ago.

Registrar Robert A. McGrath said today 3,400 students are enrolled in undergraduate and graduate courses on the SIU campus, the vocational - technical institute day courses and the Belleville residence center. Enrollment a year ago was 2,701.

McGrath said there also are 1,335 students taking non - credit courses in the division of technical and adult education and 797 enrolled in extension courses.

Registration by classes on the SIU campus is 1,131 freshmen, 678 sophomores, 499 juniors and 403 seniors. Men outnumber women by 2,164 to 1,236.

Tornado Near Kankakee Kills Woman; 12 Hurt

Cold Front Kicks Up Storms and Drops Temperatures

By United Press

A blast of cold Canadian air that kicked up tornadoes in three Midwestern states and brought an end to June-in-April weather crept southeastward out of the central states today.

As the cold front advanced it kicked up thundershowers and rain storms ahead of its leading edge and dropped temperatures from the unusually warm levels of the last few days.

The black-funneled twisters that slammed into rural areas of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin Wednesday killed one person and injured at least 13 others.

The most violent tornado spun through a 15-mile-long path just north of Kankakee, Ill., just six years to the day after an April 7, 1948 twister that killed three persons and caused heavy damage in the same area.

3 Injured in Auto Collision

Mrs. Anna Barclay, 54, was killed when the tornado demolished her rural home eight miles north of Kankakee and drove a timber into her body. Her son, Charles, 30, was hospitalized. Eleven other persons were hospitalized in the area, three of them with injuries suffered in a headon auto collision that took place at the climax of the storm.

Mrs. Elsie Langlois and 30-year-old son, Gerald, were hurled 100 feet into a field when the twister reduced their home to kindling but they were not hurt.

A small tornado whipped through Genesee County, eight miles southwest of Flint, Mich., wrecking a volunteer fire house but injuring no one.

Earlier in the day three twisters hit Iowa County in southwestern Wisconsin near Avoca and Highland, Wis. The big blow injured Mrs. Gordon Gilbertson, and destroyed the buildings on her husband's farm.

Hailstones Hit Areas

Other wild thunderstorms, rain and hail storms struck the midcontinent—all of them touched off by the collision of the cold front and warm muggy air hanging over the country. Hailstones the size of walnuts struck some Texas and Illinois communities, and lightning caused barn fires near Austin, Minn., and Indianapolis, Ind.

TORNADO WARNING EXCITES ST. LOUIS AREA

ST. LOUIS (U.P.) — A tornado warning caused considerable excitement Wednesday among residents of the St. Louis and East St. Louis area.

Switchboards were jammed, some schools dismissed their students early and in one school small children went into the basement to pray.

The Kansas City Weather Bureau issued the warning for a 50-mile belt beginning 30 miles south of Belleville, Ill., and cutting across Southern Illinois to Dayton, Ohio.

The warning was picked up and broadcast by radio stations in the area and at the Scott Air Force Base, Ill.

Olney Anxiously Awaits Emergency Supply of Water

OLNEY, Ill. (U.P.)—Olney citizens waited anxiously today for an emergency supply of water pumped from the Embarrass river to reach their city before their dwindling water supply gives out.

Only two or three days supply remained in the reservoir at the water treatment plant on the Fox Creek channel. That water had been collected from private lakes which now are dry.

Civil defense authorities loaned the city steel pipe and a pump which were set up between the Embarrass and Fox Creek and pumping began last Saturday.

Residents voluntarily are restricting water use and the city doubled its water rates Wednesday for the duration of the emergency. Pumping the emergency supply costs about $160 per day and the city also must pay about $6,000 in shipping costs on the pipe and pump which came from Indianapolis.

Killed While Shooting Starlings

CARLYLE, Ill. (U.P.) — Funeral services will be held here Friday for Leo Erlinger, 55, who accidentally shot himself in the head Tuesday while shooting starlings.

Police said Erlinger apparently fell and discharged his .22 caliber rifle.

Stevenson Asks For Report on Mitchell Action

SAN FRANCISCO (U.P.)—Adlai Stevenson, 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, asked for full reports today on a political controversy centering about National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell, James Roosevelt and Rep. Robert L. Condon (D-Calif.).

Stevenson directed his request for information to Mrs. Clara Shirpser, Democratic national committeewoman, who telephoned him Wednesday at the request of Democratic clubs in Condon's district to find out how he stands in the matter.

The controversy arose when Mitchell urged Condon and Roosevelt to withdraw their congressional candidacies.

Condon is seeking reelection in the 6th District in northern California. He was barred last year from atomic tests in Nevada as a security risk, but he has denied he is a Communist.

Roosevelt is a candidate from the 26th District of Los Angeles. His estranged wife, Romelle, has accused him of intimacies with other women.

Meanwhile, Alan Cranston, president of the California Democratic Council, charged the Department of Justice plans to prosecute Condon, if he wins the June primary, to hamper his chances and those of other Democrats in the November election.

In a wire to Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Cranston said it has been "rumored for weeks and publicly reported" that the department will seek an indictment in October "to destroy Condon and smear all Democratic candidates everywhere through guilt by association."

Bomb Attempt on Widow Connected To Husband's Death

EDENTON, N. C. (U.P.)—State officials clamped a news blackout today on their investigation of an apparently fiendish attempt to blast a pretty widow's second romance with a deadly booby trap.

Director James W. Powell of the State Bureau of Investigation ordered the blackout, saying the bomb found planted Wednesday in Mrs. Imogene Cochrane's car may be the "first real break" in her husband's baffling murder.

Mrs. Cochrane, 26, was not hurt but Police Chief George I. Dail was badly burned by a flash of fire set off by the device's delicate trigger as he was carrying it to headquarters.

Police connected the apparent attempt on the life of the slender, blue-eyed home demonstration agent with the "cold, deliberate murder" of her husband, a popular school teacher, on New Year's Eve, 1951.

Mrs. Cochrane had planned to marry town councilman George Almer Byrum this month and police speculated the booby traps might be the work of an unknown suitor who twice became embittered by her romances.

Rites Friday for Norris City Woman

The funeral of Mrs. Chloe Taylor, 86, who died Wednesday morning at her home in Norris City, will be Friday at 2 p. m. at Little Zion Primitive Baptist church, six miles northeast of Enfield. Elder Elijah Doty will officiate, and burial will be in the church cemetery.

The body is now at the Turner funeral home in Norris City.

Strauss Discloses U. S. is Embarking On Assembly-Line Production of H-Bombs

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The United States is embarking on assembly-line production of H-bombs.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission disclosed this Wednesday in an unusually frank public statement.

He told a Senate appropriations subcommittee the Joint Chiefs of Staff are counting on the super weapon "to insure that the United States maintains its superiority over potential aggressors."

In addition to thus suggesting the United States is ahead of Russia in hydrogen development, Strauss confirmed that the United States already is stockpiling H-bombs. He said President Eisenhower has ordered their production "greatly increased."

Several Types of Bombs

He also indicated a number of "thermonuclear H-bomb models" of different design and power are in the works. He told the senators the types of H-bomb now being tested in the Pacific have supplied information which "will play an important part in making the thermonuclar weapon a major instrument for the defense of the free world."

The atomic chief's statment came shortly after:

1. President Eisenhower said at his weekly news conference that the United States is making the H-bomb as big as it intends to. He said the city-killing weapon has just about reached its peak of efficiency and military usefulness.

Third Test Carried Out

2. The AEC announced that the third of the current H-bomb tests had been "successfully carried out" Tuesday at the Eniwetok Bikini proving ground in the Pacific. The test series, it is understood, calls for a total of six hydrogen explosions. The biggest of all, more than 2,000 times as powerful as the original A-bomb, is believed to be set for some time in the last half of April.

In Wednesday's statement Strauss was asking Senate approval of a revised presidential request for $1,342,000,000 in new money to run the atomic project in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Dogs Running Loose Pain to Police; Urge Signing Complaints

Chief of Police Loren Travelstead today bemoaned the fact that people persist in letting their dogs run at large.

"I'm getting calls all the time about dogs running through gardens and causing damage," he said. "We've put item after item in the newspapers urging dog owners to co-operate by keeping their dogs up, but the owners for the most part ignore them.

"It looks like we're going to have to resort to something more drastic than just telling the people to keep them up," he continued. "I realize that right now we're in the worst time, which runs from March until about July. After that complaints slow down."

Travelstead said that from his investigations there are very few strays, and that the Humane Society has been co-operating well in picking up these. The trouble, he emphasized, is from dogs that have homes whose owners let them run.

"The most effective weapon to stop this dog problem," he said, "is for persons who have been damaged to sign complaints against the dog owners.

"I know," he continued, "that people are reluctant to do this against their neighbors, but the best way to get the situation cleared up is for the garden owners to tell the dog owners they wish they would keep up their dogs as they are damaging their gardens. Then, if they persist in letting them run loose, they should sign a complaint.

"That's definitely the best way to stop it," he said. "I realize that in many cases the gardener doesn't know whose dogs are damaging his garden, but in many cases he does, and if those who know would sign complaints, the others would start keeping up their dogs."

Select Tennessee Lawyer for Army Hearing

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Ray H. Jenkins, a rawboned mountain lawyer who "never lost a client to the electric chair," started hunting a staff today to help him investigate the McCarthy-Army feud.

Jenkins, a Knoxville, Tenn., Taft Republican, said he has a "completely open" mind about the case. He promised to assemble the facts of the brawl between the Army and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and present them "fairly, fully and impartially" to the Senate Investigating subcommittee.

From then on, he said, it will be up to the subcommittee to make up its own mind.

Jenkins, a rugged-looking 6-foot-3, 57-year-old trial lawyer, was picked unanimously by the six voting members of the subcommittee late Wednesday as the impartial counsel to head the inquiry. McCarthy, regular subcommittee chairman, did not participate in Jenkins' selection. He is away from the capital.

The subcommittee voted to start hearings into the explosive case April 21 instead of next week.

Besides picking a small special staff to help him gather the facts, Jenkins was expected to confer this week with senators on special rules of procedure for the hearings including whether McCarthy will be allowed to cross-examine witnesses against him.

ICC Studies CIPS Rate Petition

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.) — The Illinois Commerce Commission today studied the question of whether to grant Central Illinois Public Service Company's petition for a $4,260,000 increase in electricity rates.

After a long series of hearings, the ICC Wednesday took under advisement the company petition, which had been filed last July 27.

The petition would affect 220,000 customers in 502 southern and central Illinois towns and villages. The utility said it hadn't raised rates in 32 years and during that period made 14 rate cuts.

Objectors strenously opposed the petition during the ICC hearings, contending the rate increase is not justified.

Mrs. Virgil Baker, 63, Former Resident Of Eldorado, Dies

Mrs. Nellie Carter Baker, 63, former Eldorado resident, died at 1:30 a. m. today at the Cottage hospital in Grosse Pointe, Mich. She resided at 577 Algonquin Ave. in Detroit, Mich.

She is survived by her husband, Virgil, who is seriously ill; a son, Glen Gidcumb, Detroit, Mich.; two grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She was an aunt of Tom Hopkins of Eldorado.

The body will arrive in Eldorado at noon Friday to be received by the Martin funeral home, where it will lie in state until the funeral which has not been determined.

Report Dulles Plans Trip to London, Paris

Sen. Knowland Says Sentiment in Congress For Foreign Aid Delay

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland suggested today that Congress may delay appropriating foreign aid for allies which stall on the American bid for collective action against new Communist aggression in the Far East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is reported considering a flying trip to London and Paris next week to line up support for "united action" to protect Southeast Asia against Red aggression. The State Department had no official comment.

The British and French Cabinets have balked at agreeing to Dulles' proposal until they see the result of the April 26 Geneva peace conference on the Far East.

"Since some of the nations with which we are associated have been suggesting waiting until after the Geneva conference before deciding on how to respond to Secretary Dulles' inquiries . . ." Knowland told newsmen, "I find there is a growing sentiment in Congress that it should delay until after Geneva before setting a final policy on appropriations in support of NATO countries."

Knowland said this applies particularly to those countries "that have dragged their feet as far as EDC (the six-nation European Defense Community) are concerned."

France and Italy are the only nations which have not ratified EDC which would rearm Western Germany.

"If they want to 'take a reading' based on Geneva," said Knowland, "maybe Congress may determine it wants to 'take a reading' based on Geneva and the response to the Dulles inquiries."

Dulles, it was understood, was thinking about flying to London Sunday for talks with British officials early in the week and then continuing on to Paris for similar talks.

The Eisenhower administration has felt the Allied negotiating position at Geneva would be strengthened if Allied powers issued a joint warning to Red China against further intervention in Indochina or Southeast Asia.

If such a declaration were issued, it would also set the stage for a regional alliance in the area to take counter-action if the Reds did not heed the warning.

The British and French cabinets balked Wednesday at agreeing to Dulles' proposal before the meeting. Informants said they argued a declaration now might jeopardize the success of the Geneva talks.

Kills Self After Shooting Wife; Separated 30 Years

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Mrs. Katherine Sordyl, 59, said today she had no explanation of why her estranged husband, whom she had not seen for 25 years, wounded her with a pistol and then put a bullet in his own brain.

The husband, 68-year-old Frank J. Sordyl, accosted and attacked his wife in the busy Randolph Street produce market area Wednesday afternoon. The couple had been separated for 30 years.

Mrs. Sordyl said her husband called to her on the street: "Wait a minute. You took some money from me."

She walked away from him, and Sordyl began firing at her with a pistol. She broke into a run, and he raced after her, firing three shots in all.

Dies at Golconda

Mrs. Kate Flannery, 84, died at her home in Golconda yesterday afternoon. The body is now at the Buchanan funeral home in Golconda where the funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. Rev. Henry S. Barger will conduct the service, and burial will be in the Odd Fellows cemetery in Golconda.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. John Foreman, Golconda, and a brother, Loren Floyd, former resident of Golconda, but now of California.

Five Missing in Explosion of U. S. Tanker Plane in Japan

NAGOYA, Japan (U.P.) — A U. S. Air Force KB29 tanker plane caught fire and exploded today a few minutes after refueling a fighter plane and five of its 11 crew members were missing.

Six members of the 11-man crew parachuted safely from the plane over a small village near Nagoya. They were picked up by helicopters and flown to a hospital for examination.

There was no word of the other five men and the Air Force did not know whether they went down with the Superfort or parachuted to safety.

Relatives of One Out of Six Patients in Mental Hospitals Help Pay for Upkeep

By DON CHAMBERLAIN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special) — Relatives of one out of every six patients in state mental hospitals are complying with the state law requiring payment toward state care of their unfortunate loved one. The State Welfare Department reports collections from relatives of approximately 17 per cent of the total patient population with indications that ultimately at least 20 per cent will be charged. Charges range from $9 a month to the maximum of $60 a month.

"As of February 28, 1954, there were 9,679 accounts receivable for a total of $2,748,288," said Frank F. Campbell, supervisor of the Division of Reimbursements in the Welfare Department. "Of these, 7,489 accounts cover patients who are presently in our hospitals — 2,190 represent charges established for patients who are deceased or have received either a conditional or absolute discharge."

Campbell said that as of Feb. 28, the department had received a total of $5,076,253 from relatives of patients. He said that the total paid for 1952 was $1,622,361.70; for 1953, $3,000,991.29; and for the first two months of 1954 it totaled $552,900. He said he anticipates a total collection for this year in excess of three million dollars.

Total yearly collections from relatives of payments for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953 (the last year for which fiscal statistics are available) represented approximately seven per cent of state expenditures for operation of the twelve mental hospitals, Campbell said. The department annual report through last June 30 showed expenditures totaled $43,895,748.

All cases, Campbell said, are handled on the basis of rules and regulations on file with Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier. After financial investigations are completed, the charge is determined and the billing issued. In cases where conservators have failed to pay, the state has filed petitions requesting court orders for payment.

"Although we have authority to request state's attorneys to file civil suits in county courts where there is a failure or refusal to pay charges, such action has, as yet, not been taken," said Campbell. "We have had excellent cooperation from state's attorneys, county and probate courts. (This last was in reference to where conservators failed to pay.)"

The newly-formed National Turnpike association, authored by a Springfield group including Evan Howell, chairman of the Illinois Highway Toll Road Commission, is being studied by Gov. William G. Stratton. The Governor told a news conference he will investigate reports which allegedly reflect against the association which is headed by Howell as president. The reports are those which deal with reported sale of memberships to bankers, contractors, engineers etc., for $1,000.

Stratton said he encouraged Howell to take a lead nationally in development of toll roads but that he thought the association which is a not-for-profit corporation was to be restricted to toll road members. He said that "perhaps the association has too broad a base. I'll look into it." The association was criticized by toll road officials of other states at a recent meeting in Miami, Florida, for the $1,000 memberships and annual dues of $250 for contractors, etc.

Stratton said he wants Illinois toll roads to be kept completely in control of the state adding "I don't want the federal government to have any control of our state toll roads. It would mean trouble and maybe lose control of the roads by the state." He said he felt the states were capable of developing toll road systems without federal assistance and therefore federal aid would not be necessary. He expects Chicago to be the "hub" for most toll roads.

In regard to appointment of Roy A. Kost, Astoria, to be assistant director of the State Department of Public Works and Buildings which has supervision of the State Highways Division, he said he expected Kost's long association with township officials as executive secretary of the Township Officials of Illinois Association to be valuable background in assisting the state in future road building programs.

Asked if Kost's association with the township officials might not be in the direction of townships seeking a greater amount of state motor fuel money, Stratton said Kost was coming to work for the state and that he expected him to look at the road building situation from the state viewpoint. He said he obtained Chief Engineer Ralph Bartelsmeyer, for St. Clair county highway superintendent for the same reason, that he considers it important to get such men to get roads built.

Postal Union Charges Illegal Dep't Lobbying

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — The AFL Federation of Post Office Clerks charged today that the Post Office Department has used government funds in an effort to influence Congress on postal pay legislation.

The union said the department has "willfully violated the law" barring use of government appropriations to influence members of Congress on legislation and held Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield responsible.

The union said the department sent out over government-leased teletype facilities last Saturday the text of a radio speech by Summerfield on legislation pending before Congress. Postmasters were instructed to "contact local newspaper editors at once with the following text and arrange for its release to Monday papers," the union said.

The union said this amounted to using tax-paid facilities "to build up pressure through propaganda to get Congress" to enact legislation favored by Summerfield.

The union and Summerfield are at odds over legislation now before the House Post Office Committee. Summerfield favors a bill providing for pay increases which he has said would average $100 a year for post office employes.

The union backs another bill providing increases averaging $800 a year. It contends that the administration bill is unfair, that most postal employes would get only $10 to $85 a year in pay hikes and those in top brackets, $1,000.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (U.P.) — The time element in governmental red tape may be greatly reduced if a new photo-recording unit works its way into government offices.

The new machine, heralded as the most important development in the photo-recording field, is designed principally for county clerk offices in copying the vast number of records—births, deaths, deeds, military papers, etc.

The Haloid Company, makers of the "Foto-Flo Recorder," say the machine "enables county officials to record documents with greater economy as well as speed. The general public, servicemen, lawyers, abstractors and others, benefit."

Through a succession of racks, plastic belts, chemical tanks and rollers, the machine can copy either one or both sides of documents and deliver finished dry prints within a couple of minutes. Only one attendant is required to feed in the documents and operate the pushbutton controls.

First Christian Loyal Daughters Class Meets

Mrs. Frank Gray was hostess to the Loyal Daughters class of the First Christian church Tuesday evening, April 6.

The meeting opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Gladys Parker, and members answered roll call by naming their favorite flower.

The meditation was given by Mrs. Frelan Smith, who took her scripture from the crucifixion, resurrection story in the Bible, interpreting it to our daily living. She told how the sorrow can be lessened on the first day by the priceless feeling of what the third day can bring.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Parker, plans were made for the clean-up-day at the church, building fund money, new kitchen equipment was considered, and a rummage sale was planned for April 30, the proceeds of which will be used for the redecoration of the fellowship hall.

The benediction was given by Mrs. James Ferrell, who was in charge of the entertainment. Awards were given by Mrs. Ruth Thompson, Mrs. Laura Rice, Mrs. Myrtle Adams and Mrs. Joe Harris.

Mrs. Gray showed colored slides taken of the group at the Christmas party in December.

Mrs. Frank Borders assisted Mrs. Gray in serving orange ice cream sodas to the following members, in addition to those mentioned before: a new member, Mrs. Lloyd Boatright, Mrs. Bill Sloan Jr., Mrs. Leonard Gooden, Miss Bess Pemberton, Mrs. Bess Hagler, Mrs. A. C. Parks, Mrs. Carl Roberson, Mrs. Ben R. Williams, Mrs. H. L. Lightfoot, and Mrs. Wayne Brackney.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thompson, Van Nuys, Calif., have been visiting her sister Mrs. Jake O'toole this week. They also visited Mr. Thompson's sister, Mrs. Lowden Perkins. They left this morning for Bowling Green, Ky., where they will visit their daughter.

Twenty-five per cent of all foods consumed by the average American consists of dairy products.

Mrs. Ruth Gaskins Hostess To McKinley Baptist Circle A

Circle A of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. Ruth Gaskins, Wednesday afternoon, April 6. The meeting was opened with the song, "Jesus Saves," and with prayer by Mrs. Guy Worthington.

After the business session Mrs. Molly Ervin led in prayer and then gave the devotion, taking her scripture from John 12:20-26. Mrs. Kirt Gasaway gave a topic on "Teachers of the Carver School" written by Mrs. Jennie Crenshaw, and Mrs. Hugh Rann talked on "Evangelistic Conference in Ohio" by C. E. Autry.

The closing prayer was by Mrs. Gaskins. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Otis Reynolds, 205 West College.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. Otis Reynolds, Mrs. Guy Worthington, Mrs. Carsa Gardner, Mrs. Molly Ervin, Mrs. Hugh Rann, Mrs. Kirt Gasaway, Mrs. Ruth Gaskins and Mrs. Oscar Agin.

Edwin Earl Cannon Celebrates Ninth Birthday

Edwin Earl Cannon was nine years old Wednesday, and in his honor a birthday celebration was held Tuesday evening by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Cannon, 1016 South Webster street.

A beautiful angelfood cake baked by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Harve McGuire, and decorated with nine candles, was enjoyed by ten of his friends who arrived at the Cannon home in time to watch Cactus Pete and to enjoy a "picnic" supper.

Climaxing the party was a session of skating at the roller rink.

Edwin received gifts and best wishes from the following in attendance: Michael Gannon, Jimmie Stearns, Tommy Dutton, Johnnie Rhodes, Joe Allen Moore, Jimmie Smith, Jerry Barter, Harry Don Wirth, Charles L. Fulkerson and Mac Mitchell.

Mrs. H. B. Bauman Speaks on Modeling To Beta Kappa Members

Beta Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Monday, April 5, in the library for the regular meeting.

Announcements were made of the nine-state convention to be held in St. Louis at the Hotel Jefferson June 19-20 and of the ritual of jewels which will be held April 29.

The group voted to make a contribution to the Woman's club which is purchasing a new piano for the club room.

Mrs. Sarah Suver, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Mrs. H. B. Bauman, who talked on "Modeling," discussing wedging and baking ceramics. She also gave a short talk on papier-mache. Following the discussion each girl participated in modeling, using plasticine instead of clay.

Senate Passes Bill Boosting Federal Aid for Highways

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate passed a bill late Wednesday to boost federal aid for highway construction to $1,010,000,000 annually for the two fiscal years beginning July 1, 1955.

Present highway budget is $652,500,000.

The measure was approved by voice vote after the Senate rejected, 44-37, an attempt by rural state senators to kill a new method of allotting federal highway aid funds among the various states.

The bill now goes to a House-Senate conference committee for adjustment of differences with a 875-million-dollar bill passed earlier by the House.

Cole Reveals He Opposed H-Bomb Development

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman W. Sterling Cole of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said Wednesday night that a number of congressmen and scientists originally opposed development of the H-bomb.

Newspaper files show that one of the dissenters was Cole himself. When Harry S. Truman ordered H-bomb research started Jan. 31, 1950, Cole reacted sharply.

Mr. Truman had "muffed" a chance, he declared, to take the lead in halting "the mad race of modern science toward more and greater weapons of destruction."

It was against this background that Cole said in a formal statement Wednesday night that the "considerable discussion" that preceded the Truman decision was "not of itself sinister."

"Nor does it imply that those who opposed the President's final decision were motivated by a desire to lessen our military strength," he said.

Cole's statement was directed to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's charge —denied by Mr. Truman and unconfirmed by the government — that H-bomb research was delayed 18 months and that Communists in the government may have been responsible.

The statement was in Cole's name but it apparently spoke for his committee.

In Augusta, Maine, former Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner T. Pike also denied McCarthy's charges.

"I never saw any more undivided attention to work and loyalty than we had from our people," Pike said. "I suppose that McCarthy, as he frequently does, is just throwing mud and hoping some of it will stick."

Offers $100 for First Non-Com Who Will 'Sock' Schine

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—A retired U. S. Army major general said today he will pay a $100 reward to "the first tough non-com" who gives Pvt. G. David Schine a sock in the nose. Schine is former special investigator for Sen. Joseph McCarthy's investigating subcommittee.

Maj. Gen. Arthur R. Wilson (ret.) said he has posted a certified check for $100 with the commanding officer at Fort Dix, N. J., with the notation that it is "a reward for the NCO who socks Schine."

Schine is a central figure in the row between McCarthy and the U. S. Army now under investigation in Washington.

The Army charged McCarthy and his special counsel, Roy Cohn, used threats and attempted intimidation to obtain special privileges for Schine while he was undergoing basic training.

Wilson, now in Europe as an American businessman, retired from the Army in May, 1948.

Wilson, commenting on his reward offer said:

"It should have been done long ago. Perhaps we still have at least one old-school non commissioned officer not babied or brain washed with modern training ideas who'll do the job."

Call High School for Donations of Clothing To Save-Children Drive

It was announced today that anyone having clothing, particularly for children, that they wish to give to the "Save-the-Children" drive, sponsored by the Hi Tri of the Harrisburg Township high school, should call the high school office, and the clothing will be picked up Friday afternoon.

"Bundle Week" which began Monday, April 5, is the 12th annual Children's Clothing Crusade for needy children in this country and overseas.

Saving Evergreens

Evergreens may be twisted out of shape or broken under the weight of snow. Avoid this by brushing away with a broom the snow that accumulates after a heavy fall. If yew, boxwood, rhododendron and mountain laurel are piled high with snow, raise the branches carefully and shake gently. Do not pound the tree.

Optical authorities estimate that there are 11,132,544 lens combinations possible for eye glasses.

Eisenhower, Dulles Introduce New 8-Cent Stamp

WASHINGTON (AP)—A red, white and blue postage stamp dedicated to faith and freedom makes its debut today at a ceremony to be heard around the world.

President Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield will introduce the colorful Statue of Liberty eight-cent stamp on a coast-to-coast television broadcast today.

The Voice of America will relay the 15-minute program behind the Iron Curtain and to friendly countries around the world on its foreign language broadcasts.

The stamp, which bears the motto "In God We Trust," is the first regular U. S. stamp to stress a religious theme and to carry more than one color. The denomination is to be used chiefly for overseas mail.

Postal officials said it will be the first time a president and secretary of state have participated in a stamp-issuing ceremony.

The stamp was designed by Charles R. Chickering, 62-year-old employe of the Bureau of Engraving. His design shows a picture of the Statue of Liberty with "In God We Trust" arched over the top and the word "Liberty" printed below. It was picked from four or five submitted by bureau designers.

"The stamp rededicates our faith in the spiritual foundations upon which our government and our nation rest and without which no government or nation could endure," Summerfield said.

"It expresses our desires that the blessings of liberty may grow among all the peoples of the world."

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

"Make Courtesy Your Code of the Road" is the slogan being used in a current highway safety drive sponsored by the National Safety Council, the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee and the National Committee for Traffic Safety.

Principally through the use of bumper stickers and dashboard stickers, the sponsoring organizations are seeking to keep that thought in the minds of drivers while they are actually driving their cars.

Courtesy is unquestionably one of the basic ingredients of safe driving. A little more frequent use of it could save many lives—possibly your own. When you see the "Courtesy" sticker on the rear bumper of the car ahead of you, take it seriously. It's good advice. And put one on the rear bumper of your own car.

On the local level, the sponsoring organizations are working through service clubs, business and safety groups. Perhaps your club could sponsor the drive in your community. Any one of the three major sponsors will provide details and materials to carry it out.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Two Japanese Fishing Boats Arrive in Port With Radioactive Cargo

TOKYO (U.P.)—Two Japanese fishing boats which said they were outside the 450-mile danger area when the second U. S. hydrogen device was exploded in the Pacific March 26 arrived in port today with cargoes of radioactive tuna.

Health officials ordered parts of both catches destroyed. None of the fishermen felt sick and it was not immediately known whether "hot" dust from the hydrogen explosions showered the boats, the Shoho Maru and the Kaifuku Maru.

3 Studebakers Win Top Honors In Mobilgas Run

SUN VALLEY, Ida. (U.P.) — Three Studebakers today captured top honors in the 1954 Mobilgas economy run, including the coveted sweepstakes prize.

A Studebaker V8 Land Cruiser with standard transmission and overdrive won the top sweepstakes award for the three-day, 1,335-mile gasoline economy drive from Los Angeles to Sun Valley with a performance averaging 60.8465 ton miles per gallon and 28.1046 actual miles per gallon.

A ton mile, on which the over-all sweepstakes award is based, is the amount of gasoline a car uses in moving one ton of weight for one mile.

A Studebaker Champion won the low price standard and overdrive transmission division and also took top honors for actual miles per gallon in the economy run by averaging 29.5806 miles per gallon.

A Studebaker Land Cruiser won the upper-medium price class for automatic transmissions to round out the sweep of top prizes for this manufacturer.

Fords and Mercuries previously had dominated the economy run trophy presentations.

Cobalt Weapon Could Annihilate All Life on Earth

NEW YORK (U.P.) — The most deadly weapon yet conceived by man which could annihilate all life on earth can now be made successfully, a dispatch in the New York Times said today.

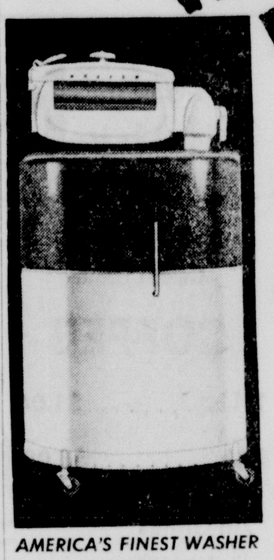

The cobalt bomb — a hydrogen bomb encased in a cobalt shell — passed from the realm of the theoretical during the recent hydrogen blasts at the Eniwetok proving grounds in the Pacific, New York Times Science Writer William L. Lawrence said in a two-column story in the Times.

Prof. Harrison Brown, nuclear chemist at the California Institute of Technology, said if a cobalt bomb were set off on a north-south line about the longitude of Prague it "would destroy all life within a strip 1,500 miles wide, extending from Leningrad to Odessa, and 3,000 miles deep from Prague to the Ural Mountains."

"Such an attack would produce a 'scorched earth' unprecedented in history," Brown told the newspaper.

To the Candidates and Republican Voters of the Fifty-First District:

Last Saturday morning a vicious circular, anonymously printed, was distributed in Harrisburg.

I want it understood that I FULLY CONDEMN ANY SUCH ACTIONS and that I HAVE NEVER RESORTED TO SUCH MALICIOUS POLITICS AND NEVER WILL!

You who know me personally know that I have always been forthright and straightforward in my political activities, including my present campaign for nomination as Representative from the 51st district. Such activities as the one I have mentioned will never be a part of my campaign.

My sole intent in the current campaign is to win the nomination for Representative. I hope to achieve this through open, above-board, hard work . . . not through devious, underhanded mud-slinging. I have no respect for a person or persons who will distribute such trash as contained in the circular mentioned above, without the courage or integrity to sign their names.

I intend to continue a hard campaign for the nomination. If you, the voters, see fit to nominate me, I will serve you to the best of my ability, endeavoring at all times to represent this district in the true sense of the word.

Respectfully,

DAVE E. EVANS

Warren Air Base New Favorite For Tourney Title

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — Warren Air Force Base, Wyo., the new favorite for the tourney title, clashes with Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., tonight in the featured fourth round game in the World-Wide Air Force Basketball Tournament.

Warren became the title pick by upsetting previously favored Andrews AFB, Md., 98-84, Wednesday night.

Other games scheduled today are: Eielson AFB, Alaska, vs. Andrews AFB; Keesler AFB, Miss., vs. Scott AFB, Ill.

Sheppard defeated Keesler, 56-51, Wednesday night.

Scott beat Larson AFB, Wash., 72-61, to eliminate Larson from the double-elimination tourney. Herbie Thompson led the winning Scott team with 19.

Two Apprentice Riders Hurt in Spill

LINCOLN, R. I. (AP) — Two apprentice riders were hospitalized today after a three-horse spill at Lincoln Downs but jockey Tony Despirito's luck still held good.

Despirito, Mike Thomas and Paul Bohenko hit the turf when their mounts tangled on the stretch in Wednesday's ninth race. Thomas suffered a concussion and Bohenko an injured shoulder and both were hospitalized at Woonsocket. Despirito, though badly shaken, refused hospitalization.

The spill occurred when Bohenko, riding Our Jan, made a bid for the lead and his horse swerved and fell, tripping Thomas' mount Hatter War. Despirito, on Red Hoops, piled into Hatter War.

Eielson easily defeated Pepperell AFB, Nfld., 98-63.

Lopez Wants Newhouser Signed with Indians After Impressive Performance

By United Press

Manager Al Lopez said today he will recommend that Hal Newhouser be signed to a contract with the Cleveland Indians, provided the once-great southpaw and General Manager Hank Greenberg "can agree to reasonable terms."

"There is no doubt that Newhouser can help the Indians," Lopez said after the 32-year-old former Tiger's impressive five-inning performance against the New York Giants Wednesday. "I'm going to tell Greenberg by telephone today that I'd like to have Hal but it's up to them to work out the terms."

Newhouser earned close to $40,000 last season—a sum which Lopez conceded Greenberg could hardly approach. But the forthright Cleveland pilot pointed out he was in something of a quandary "because I'm sure the Chicago White Sox will sign Newhouser if we don't."

To Rejoin Indians

Lopez said he understood that General Manager Frank Lane of the White Sox "had been following Newhouser closely" and "wants to add him to the Chicago staff if we give him the chance."

Newhouser left the Indians in Chattanooga, Tenn., Wednesday night for Detroit where he is expected to contact Greenberg. He told Lopez he would rejoin the Indians in Indianapolis next Sunday.

Newhouser, who quit the Tigers after appearing in only seven games and failing to score a victory last season, has allowed five runs in his last 13 innings of Grapefruit League pitching. He turned in his best effort Wednesday—striking out five batters and yielding only two hits and an uncarned run in five innings—although he suffered a 2-1 defeat.

Haddix Brilliant

The St. Louis Cardinals, New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Boston Red Sox and Giants also were encouraged by outstanding pitching performances in Wednesday's games.

Opening day pitcher Harvey Haddix hurled seven shutout innings as the Cardinals scored a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Haddix, a 20-game winner last season, now owns a brilliant 0.25 earned run average for the spring—one earned run in 25 innings.

Whitey Ford, the Yankees' No. 1 disappointment of the spring only a week ago, scattered five hits and struck out eight batters as the world champions defeated their Norfolk farmhands, 4-1. Joe Collins homered for the Yankees and rookie Bill Skowron celebrated his promotion to the varsity with a late-inning single that kept his spring average over .400.

Cubs Win, 2-0

Outfielder Hal Jeffcoat spun five shutout innings in his debut as a big league pitcher in the Cubs' 2-0 decision over the Baltimore Orioles. The Orioles also were delighted by Duane Pillette's nine-inning six-hitter although it was in a losing cause.

Mel Parnell, Boston's opening day pitcher, and rookie Tom Brewer combined for a six-hitter as the Red Sox beat the Milwaukee Braves, 7-2. Parnell yielded both runs on homers by Del Crandall while Brewer stretched his string of consecutive scoreless innings to 22 with a three-inning cleanup job.

Johnny Antonelli's eight scoreless innings highlighted the Giants' victory which also assured New York the edge over Cleveland in their spring series. The Giants hold a 12-7 edge with four games remaining.

Jackie Robinson's four hits sparked the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 10-4 triumph over the Washington Senators, the Detroit Tigers beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 7-5, and the Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-5, in Wednesday's other games.

Grayson Says Braves Can Win Without Thomson; Rookie Takes Up Slack

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

BRADENTON, Fla. —(NEA)— Young Henry Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves hit a Hershell Freeman pitch so hard that the ball landed on a house far back of the Sarasota park's left center field fence.

"Holy cow!" shouted the Boston Red Sox shortstop, and teammates agreed they had never seen a more awesome poke, not even with Ted Williams around.

With Bobby Thomson out with a triple fracture of the right ankle, Aaron packs more weight for and assumes an even more important position with the Milwaukee club.

* * *

Aaron is a 20-year-old Mobile Negro who last season led the Class A South Atlantic League in everything but hotel accommodations and repeated throughout the winter in Puerto Rico. This is only his second full season in professional baseball, but reporting to Eau Claire of the C Northern League in June, 1952, he quickly convinced the brass that they had something extra special.

In exhibition games, Charley Grimm has the right-hand Aaron batting fifth behind Eddie Mathews and Thomson. In that situation, the phenomenon threatened to turn Bill Bruton into a strictly defensive outfielder, one to be sent in late in the game, when a catch is more important than a clout.

Milwaukee pitchers testify that the fleet Bruton saved 15 games last season with his artistry in center field, but a club simply can't carry a flychaser who bats no more than .250, with only 41 runs batted in and a single home run in 151 games.

* * *

Paul Waner, the Hall-of-Famer of the 3000 hits, is working on the left-hand swinging Bruton's bunting and trying to teach the trim Wilmington lad to poke the ball into left field.

Aaron, 5-10 and 165 and a speedster who runs on his heels like Joe and Dom DiMaggio (and Mickey Mantle), adds to the Braves' power and versatility. He broke in as a second baseman.

With Aaron in right field, the plan was to switch Thomson to center and Andy Pafko to left.

Jim Pendleton was a shortstop who became an outfielder and hit close to .400 throughout the closing weeks of last season and continued taking liberties with pitchers as a member of Roy Campanella's All-Stars.

* * *

Manager Grimm likes another outfielder, Dick Sinovic, who in six years in the minors manufactured 92 home runs and drove in 701 runs. With Atlanta last trip, Sinovic led the Southern Association in runs-batted-in with 126, hits with 201 and total bases with 319. Runner-up for the batting championship with .342, he had 35 doubles and 23 home runs.

Danny O'Connell plays second, third and shortstop. Jack Dittmer is an excellent defensive second baseman.

So with Joe Adcock at first base and Johnny Logan at shortstop and Sam Calderone backing up Del Crandall behind the plate, the Braves are as sound as Lou Perini's contracting business.

The Braves can get along very well without Bobby Thomson, provided their surprising pitching of last season was not a snare and a delusion.

The Thomson injury must come as no surprise to Mel Ott. When the Scot first came up to the Giants in 1947, Ottie stopped a spring training session and warned Thomson that "you'll hurt yourself if you don't learn to slide correctly." The slide which broke his ankle was a poor one.

Milwaukee's Braves, transplanted from Boston at the start of the 1953 baseball season, attracted record interest throughout last season and seem to be on the road to another record-breaking year. The fans up Milwaukee way really support the club and it also has followers throughout the midwest.

* * *

Floyd Williams, the friendly porter at the Horning hotel, is one of the most ardent Brave fans in these parts and was telling me a day or so ago about making a trip last Sunday to Nashville to see Milwaukee in an exhibition game. Believe he said two car loads of fans from Harrisburg made the jaunt. But this is the pay-off. He said there was a 35-car caravan from Milwaukee in Nashville for the game.

* * *

Incidentally, Floyd isn't a Brave fan that got on the band wagon after the club started winning. He began to sing their praises as soon as it was whispered last spring that the club might leave Boston and move to Milwaukee.

The Carrier Mills high school baseball team now has a 1-1 record for the season. After opening with a win over Equality the Wildcats dropped a 7-1 decision to Marion this week. Next Tuesday McLeansboro will make a call to the Wildcat diamond, which is now sporting a new score board, erected by the Coca-Cola company.

* * *

Two of the bigger invitational basketball tournaments are ready for another round of action, with the announcement of a full field of entries, at both Harrisburg and Centralia.

* * *

The annual Egyptian Holiday tourney, co-sponsored by Mt. Vernon, West Frankfort and Harrisburg, will be held at Davenport gym this season with the same teams participating as last season — defending champ Edwardsville, Mt. Vernon, West Frankfort, Murphysboro, Carbondale, Zeigler, Carrier Mills and Harrisburg. Playing dates are Dec. 27-30.

* * *

The field at Centralia includes Collinsville, Benton, Marion, Herrin, Pinckneyville, Sparta, Mt. Carmel, Salem, Belleville, Litchfield, Pana, Blue Island, Quincy, Vandalia, Champaign, and the host school, Centralia. This 16-team tourney has a consoaltion bracket and crowds lots of basketball into a three-day period. The tourney will be held Dec. 28-29-30.

New American C47s Arrive In Indochina

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — New American-built C47 transport planes arrived in Indochina today to bolster the supply line to the battered French garrison of beseiged Dien Bien Phu.

French crews will use the additional planes to beef up the supply of ammunition, food and medicines to the vital fortress whose defenders are bracing for an anticipated new Communist assault.

Red artillery and ground action has cut Dien Bien Phu off from all supplies except those parachuted into the Red-ringed fortress.

Today's reports from the garrison said the Communists were burrowing and tunnelling all over the Dien Bien Phu basin. An additional 20,000 Red reinforcements were pressing southward from depots along the Red China border to launch another Communist attack before the monsoon rains begin, in about one week.

Officials refused to say whether the new C47s are the vanguard of emergency aid requested from Washington earlier this week by the French government. They also withheld the number of planes delivered.

Communist forces, while regrouping for the assault on Dien Bien Phu, struck with other units in a series of bold raids that brought the sound of gunfire to Hanoi itself during the night.

Illinois Guardsmen To Take Two Months' Summer Field Training

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Ten-thousand Illinois National Guardsmen will take two weeks of summer field training in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, Gov. William G. Stratton said today.

First group to train will be the 126th Fighter Bomber Wing of the Air Corps. All units except the 878th Engineer Aviation Battalion will go to Collins Field, Alpena, Mich., from June 12-26.

The wing includes air units from Chicago, Peoria and Springfield. The engineer battalion will train at Camp Williams, Wis., July 31-Aug. 14.

Army training will be from July 10 through 24 with most of the 33rd Infantry Division, the 178th Regimental Combat Team, and the 32nd Ordnance Battalion going to Camp Ripley, Minn.

The 133rd Anti-aircraft Artillery will train during the same period at Camp Haven, Wis. The 202nd Antiaircraft Artillery group will be at Camp Claybanks, Mich., on the opposite shore of Lake Michigan from the 133rd camp.

Hack to Use Jeffcoat as Pitcher After Outfielder Blanks Orioles for 5 Innings

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hal Jeffcoat has been a Chicago Cubs outfielder for six years—but from now on he's a pitcher.

That was the decision of Manager Stan Hack after Jeffcoat, in an astonishing trial as a pitcher, shut out the Baltimore Orioles for five innings as the Cubs won the rubber game of the exhibition series between the two teams, 2-0, Wednesday. Jeffcoat faced only 18 men, struck out 2 and walked 1.

"We felt he could pitch and win in any company," Hack declared. "That's why we tried him today. We definitely would not hesitate to use him as a pitcher in any situation. He proved he can pitch."

Jeffcoat wasn't quite as optimistic.

"I'm anxious to see what will happen next time," he confessed as he sat in his hotel room with his older brother, George, who pitched for the Dodgers and Braves, making his last big league appearance in 1943. "One game isn't any criterion, but today was wonderful.

Coaches Pleased

"I was supposed to go only three innings, but I wanted to see if I could finish and Stan agreed to let me try."

Coaches Bob Scheffing and Emil (Dutch) Leonard, who urged Hack to try Jeffcoat as a pitcher, were as pleased as Hal himself. "Bob Lemon made the switch from an infielder to a 20-game winner in a year and a half," said Scheffing. "Jeffcoat can do it, too."

Jeffcoat was a pitcher as a schoolboy, following in the footsteps of his brothers, but turned to the outfield because he felt he could make a greater success there and play every day. The last game he pitched was with Shelby of the Tri-State League in 1946.

"I threw only fast balls, sliders and a fast curve," Hal said of his debut against the Orioles. He also has a screwball and a slow curve.

The Orioles said his pitches were "alive" and they were surprised at his control.

Hack said Jeffcoat will be changed from an outfielder to a pitcher on the official roster, but also will play the outfield occasionally when needed. An excellent fielder, he batted only .235 in 106 games last season.

Davey Wins Easy Decision From Dreyer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Chuck Davey had a unanimous decision tucked away on his comeback trail today, but figured he needed a bout with Vince Martinez before taking another shot at welterweight champion Kid Gavilan.

The stylish southpaw from Michigan State earned a lop-sided verdict over rugged Gerry Dreyer of South Africa Wednesday night in a 10-round nationally televised bout that saw the Britisher on the verge of a knockout several times.

But Davey never was able to put across the big punch although he hit Dreyer virtually at will toward the end with left and right combinations to the body and head.

Davey, who went into the ring weighing 149, had the 151-pound Dreyer in trouble as early as the second round when he nearly dropped Dreyer with a left to the head. Then in the sixth he staggered the South African again after exploding a left and right to the head but Dreyer managed to weather the attack.

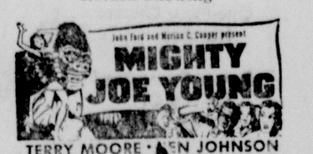

Dreyer Tired After Seventh

In the meantime, Davey got a few lumps of his own when Dreyer blasted him with hard rights over the collegian's unguarded left hand sector. The brawling, pushing Briton landed four of those shots during the fourth round and three more in the seventh but was never in sight of pulling a storybook knockout.

Then Dreyer tired visibly from the seventh round on as Davey tried to end the fight before the last bell.

Hec Knowles, Davey's manager, suggested that his television idol get a bout with Martinez before facing the Gavilan chopper again and Davey agreed. It was Gavilan who stopped Davey in the 10th round early last year in a title fight that came as a shock to the erudite boxer's parlor supporters.

Attend Concert At Waycross, Ga., Directed by Son

Mr. and Mrs. Perry R. Moore returned yesterday from a short vacation in Georgia and while in Waycross attended a concert by the Davidson college concert band directed by their son, Kenneth R. Moore.

The 50-piece ensemble was concluding a tour which extended to Tampa and Palm Beach, Fla. Enthusiastic audiences which ran as high as 3,000 at Palm Beach greeted the band at every concert. Edwin Marko Goldman, noted bandmaster, has referred to this organization as one of the finest college bands in the country.

A press clipping called Moore "a gifted and top-flight musician . . . and outstanding clarinetist and music educator as well as an exceptional conductor.

After his graduation from HTHS he received both his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from the University of Illinois, then received a Master's degree from Julliard School of Music in New York City.

Professor Moore also played first clarinet with several well-known service bands while serving in both the Navy and Air Force during World War II, and for two years he served as an instructor at the Transylvania Music Camp near Brevard, N. C. During the past summer he played in the orchestra at the Berkshire Music Center, Tanglewood, Mass. He has been first clarinetist for both the Charlotte (N. C.) Symphony orchestra and the Charlotte Opera association.

He has organized and conducted the Western, N. C., Solo and Ensemble contest finals for high school musicians at Davidson college for the past three years.

Pioneer in TB Control, Seal Founder is Ill

Leigh Mitchell Hodges

Leigh Mitchell Hodges, only survivor of the four founders of the Christmas Seal which annually provides funds for the fight against tuberculosis, is in critical condition today in Wooster, Ohio. The extent of Mr. Hodges' illness was not realized until recent major surgery.

Mr. Hodges spent his boyhood in Carrollton, Ill., in Greene county. In 1907, while a member of the editorial staff of the now-defunct Philadelphia "North American," he visioned the possibilities of a tiny piece of paper to spread the news that the dread disease tuberculosis could be cured and prevented—facts then generally doubted—and launched a publicity campaign that paved the way to the present nationwide effort to conquer the "white plague."

A resident of Doylestown, Pa., he has had a distinguished career as writer and lecturer. His newspaper column "The Optimist," now in its 52nd year and appearing in the Philadelphia "Evening Bulletin" is the oldest of its kind under one authorship. He is the author of "People Against Tuberculosis" and several books of essays; a contributor to the Reader's Digest, the New Yorker and other magazines, and an honorary member of the National Tuberculosis association and Pennsylvania Tuberculosis and Health society.

The pioneer in TB control visited Illinois in the spring of 1952. His grandfather, Justice Charles D. Hodges, rode the same circuit with Lincoln in Greene County.

Mr. Hodges is at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Beeson, 1681 Burbank Road, Wooster, Ohio.

Methodist W. S. C. S. Holds Regular Meeting

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church met at the church Thursday Apr. 1, at 7 p.m. for the regular meeting, which was opened with prayer by the president, Mae Hitchcock.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and roll call was answered by repeating the Seven Last Words of Christ on the cross.

During the business session plans were made for those who could to attend the conference meeting to be held in Mt. Vernon on Wednesday, April 7, and the district meeting which will be held in Fairfield on May 6.

The group also voted to send donations to various hospitals and missionaries which they help annually to support.

After the business session Pansy Black gave the devotion using as her theme "All Loves Excelling," reading scripture taken from Psalms 103.

A solo, "Take My Life and Let it Be," was sung by Irma Jean Van Meter.

Mary Tanner was in charge of the lesson entitled "Who Are the Guilty?" After responsive reading taken from John 19, interesting talks on the lesson were given by Essie Motsinger, Florence Herrin, Ina Melven, Ilda Hitchcock and Wilma Gulledge.

The talks were on prison camps, how our prisons have been improved and how prisoners have found Jesus.

After the closing hymn, "Lord Speak to Me," the group was dismissed by the leader, Mary Tanner.

Delicious refreshments of ice cream sodas were served by the hostesses, Mabel Milligan and Ina Melven to the following: Mae Hitchcock, Florence Herrin, Mary Tanner, Mary Barger, Wilma Gulledge, Pansy Black, Della Ryan, Carrie Edmondson, Essie Motsinger, Irma Van Meter and Ilda Hitchcock.

4-H Club Meets For Birthday Celebration

The Carrier Mills 4-H Sewing club gathered at the home of Mrs. Gene Parks Friday evening, April 2, to celebrate the birthdays of Beverly Parks and Joyce Absher.

Refreshments of cake, ice cream and soft drinks were served to the following: Marigene Miller, Donna Owens, Judy Harris, Judy Farthing, Darla Norman, Linda Murphy, Joan Dunn, Patty Dunn, Georgia Moore, Jane Tanner, Katherine Mathews, Sue Hutson, Charlotte O'Keefe, Mrs. Pete Holmes, leader, and two visitors, Beverly Adams and Mona Parks, and the honored Beverly Parks and Joyce Absher.

Planes Collide In Canada; Report 20 to 25 Killed

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (AP)—A large passenger plane collided with a smaller plane in the air today and crashed into a house.

First reports said between 20 and 25 persons were believed killed.

Trans-Canada Air Lines in Montreal said a brief report had been received of an "accident" involving a North Star plane on flight number nine. A North Star is a four-engined plane similar to a DC4.

The crash occurred shortly after 11 a.m. CST.

Dallas' Million Dollar Religious Look

FOR THE YOUTH OF DALLAS, this is one new way of looking at religion—an afternoon bowling session for teens in the million-dollar recreation building of the First Baptist Church.

By RALPH MONCREIF
NEA Staff Correspondent

DALLAS — (NEA) — What may be the No. 1 secret weapon in the battle of "Juvenile Delinquency versus Society" was unveiled last month by the First Baptist Church in Dallas — a million-dollar recreational building dedicated to the young people of the city.

It is a playtime approach to religion never before attempted on such a large scale, and so new that those most closely associated with it are having to feel their way along step by step.

Housed on the top floor of a six-story parking garage, the church gymnasium includes a university-type basketball court and seats for 400 spectators. There are two cross-court basketball or volleyball courts, six doubles badminton courts, a four-lane bowling alley, and space for ping-pong and gymnastic work.

* * *

A roller skating rink that will accommodate 150 skaters occupies the fifth floor. Behind glass at one end of the rink, 200 persons can sit in comfort and watch.

A snack bar with electric ovens, ice boxes and gas burners is set up for after-game refreshments. There is no charge for use of the facilities by church members and their guests except for a small fee to pay pin boys.

The gigantic recreational program, conceived by the youngish pastor of the church, Dr. W. A. Criswell, did not reach its present state without much prayer and sometimes, despair. Called to head the largest white Baptist church in the nation (membership over 10,000) when he was 32, Dr. Criswell's first concern was the young people.

"A church without young people will wither and die," he has declared on many occasions.

In 1944 the church had no recreational program. He spent the rest of that year and all of 1945 working with others interested in seeing such a program in the church.

* * *

By softball season 1946, a conglomerate group of enthusiasts wearing the green and white colors of the church took to the field. The first basketball team from the church to participate in the Dallas Church Athtletic Association was also organized in 1946. The recreational program was under way.

Says Ned King, one of the youngest deacons and an active participant in the program: "The teams of 1946 and '47 were the beginning of an outstanding athletic program in the church that has seen increased activity in Sunday School participation and many conversions of boys and young men who probably never would have been reached otherwise."

The Parking Recreational Building is considered by many in the church as a modern miracle. A young people's building had been planned in 1947, but many things delayed it. Meantime, other property adjacent to the church became available, solving two problems for the downtown church: space for the athletic facilities, and parking for the huge congregation. Steel began to rise for the six-story building in August, 1952.

Meanwhile, the recreational program had grown by leaps and bounds with 16-and-under and 18-and-under softball and basketball teams, plus an adult team. The church called in Bob Rainwater, a bony-cheeked young man who has given his life to a study of the effects of recreation upon the lives of young people, as Director of Christian Recreation.

* * *

Rainwater has added tennis and golf tournaments to the already crowded athletic schedule and directs an athletic program for the summer camp.

His philosophy is "if you want to know a child, watch him play."

Dallas Police Chief Carl Hansson, after being shown through the facilities, declared:

"I believe that with this program the First Baptist Church has taken a step that churches all over the nation should emulate as far as their financial abilities will permit. I believe it is the one thing that will bind the church closer to the community and help curb the alarming increase in juvenile delinquency."

Rainwater's three volunteer assistants—J. Russell Wyatt, bowling; Jerry Waite, skating, and Levi Billman, gymnasium — all agree that the program is binding the church family into a closer knit group than any program ever has.

* * *

Says Billman: "Family night is doing more to help families know each other than anything I have ever seen. It reminds you of the old adage: 'The family that plays together, stays together'."

From Jan. 23, when the recreational plant was unofficially opened, until Feb. 20, 336 persons have actively participated in some phase of the program. In 18 sessions, 2563 persons have used the roller rink, 358 the gymnasium and 425 the bowling lanes.

Says Dr. Criswell:

"In its recreational program the First Baptist Church has constructed a bridge over which, after a short while, the unenlisted young people may walk into the church, naturally and unafraid.

"And as long as the glitter and tinsel of our downtown city lure our young people into the taverns, the night spots, and the burlesque houses, the downtown beacon light of our Recreational Building will send forth its message calling for the young people of the city to come there and seek a closer walk with God."

DALLAS PASTOR Dr. W. A. Criswell joins young people at his church's new skating rink.

Need for Correct Social Security Reporting Stressed

Correct reporting for social security was urged in a statement made today by E. Bishop Hill, manager of the Harrisburg social security office. "It is essential to the future security of workers and their families, that quarterly reports of employees' wages be right," Mr. Hill declared.

The social security old-age and survivors insurance program provides protection for 4 out of 5 of the nation's workers, including the self-employed — old-age benefits for workers and their families upon the worker's retirement at age 65 or later, and survivor benefits for families should the worker die at any age. Whether or not any benefit is payable, and if so, the amount of the benefit, depends on the amount of covered wages credited to the individual social security account of the worker.

Therefore, it is the obligation of the employer, the local social security manager continued, to report all the covered earnings of each of his employees, under his correct name and social security number. Any failure of the employer to fulfill this obligation may result in a failure to credit the earnings to the employee's social security account and consequently, in failure of the employee to qualify for any benefit or for the full amount of his benefit.

The self-employed person, whose net earnings from a trade or business covered by social security are $400 or more in a year, has the obligation to file a report of his self-employment income. This is done in connection with the individual's regular yearly income tax return, and is required regardless of whether he is otherwise required to file a regular income tax return.

"The social security contributions of employers, workers, and self-employed make possible monthly benefit checks for families in the worker's old age, or in case of his death. Report right — make your earnings count," concluded Mr. Hill.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: NSC Tells Ike Indo-China Must Not Be Lost To Commies; Ike Faces Difficult Problem Because Of Campaign Promises And Budget Cuts; U. S. Troops Might Go To Indo-China.

WASHINGTON. — The current educational campaign to prepare the American people for possible war in Indo-China was preceded by a special study by the National Security Council. It was conducted by Undersecretary of Defense Roger Kyes and Undersecretary of State Bedell Smith, and they were charged with ascertaining whether the Truman policy regarding Indo-China was correct.

It had been the definite policy of the State and Defense Departments under Truman that Indo-China was vital to the anti-Communist defense of Asia. However, the Burma and Thailand governments have been telling Washington that they can hold out against the Red Chinese even if Indo-China falls. So, rather belatedly — because this problem has been all too apparent for months—the security council ordered a special study.

The conclusion was exactly the same as that found under Truman: That a non-Communist Indo-China was essential to the free world.

If it became Communist, the NSC study concluded, Russia would be able to weld two of the greatest resources of Asia: 1. The manpower of China; and 2, the raw materials of southeast Asia. The chief remaining Communist goal would be the industrial power of Japan. And the NSC study concluded that with Indo-China gone, all the surrounding countries, plus eventually Japan and the Philippines, would fall later.

IKE'S POLITICAL PROBLEMS

To intervene actively in Indo-China with the definite risk of war involves delicate, embarrassing political problems. Hence the Eisenhower educational campaign, plus the hesitation. Here are the problems Ike faces:

1. War in Indo-China would show the fallacy of push-button warfare and Mr. Dulles' promise that we would not get bogged down in local wars again.

2. All the budget cuts saved at the expense of the Army, Navy and Air Force would go glimmering.

3. The Republicans used Korea as one of the most effective campaign issues during the 1952 elections; the Democrats could do likewise regarding Indo-China.

TALKS WITH AUSTRALIA

Nevertheless, here are the moves now under consideration regarding the blood-soaked jungles regarded so essential to a free Asia:

Australian Interest — Talks have been proceeding with Australia and New Zealand to arouse their interest in Indo-China. If that country goes Red, these two British dominions would be in greater danger than any other part of the Anglo-Saxon world. So far the Anzacs have sent outdated military equipment, and current talks have evoked not one iota of enthusiasm for sending men.

More Air Support — U. S. admirals propose sending two or more airplane carriers which could stand off the French coast and pound the Communists. This may be done. It involves the risk, of course, that Chinese troops will then be dumped into the fighting. So far there are plenty of Chinese-Russian munitions but apparently no troops.

U. S. Troops — The sending of four U. S. divisions has been under discussion. They would replace French metropolitan troops, thus relieving the political furor in Paris where it's demanded that French troops come home. French North African troops would remain. The political repercussions of such a move on the American public are not relished but may be unavoidable.

United Nations—Hitherto France has taken the stand that Indo-China was a domestic problem, not one for U. N. debate. This puts the United States in the awkward position of supporting a so-called "imperialist" government. This is one of the great difficulties in Indo-China and is the reason why the war is so unpopular with Asiatics.

However, wrapping the U. N. around Indo-China will be extremely difficult—first, because of the original reluctance of the French; second, because of the Soviet veto. Russia was absent when Korea came up, and has regretted it ever since. The Kremlin will not make the mistake of being absent again. These are the chief problems being discussed backstage today regarding the most difficult problem the Eisenhower administration faces.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

Deputy Secretary of Defense Roger Kyes has been accused of walking off the job the day he submitted his resignation—though his term won't be up until May 1. It is true that he took a ten-day vacation trip, but I can report he was in touch with his office throughout his vacation, and Kyes is now busy helping to break in his successor . . . Secretary Dulles has been working 'round the clock and is completely exhausted . . . The Army has sent secret cables to its military attaches around the world, asking for public opinion on Secretary of State Dulles' threat of "massive retaliation." The Army hoped to use the replies to oppose Dulles. Most of the return cables so far favor Dulles' policy . . . Dr. Beatrice Atchison, the Post Office's lady mathematician, has completed a painstaking survey, proving that the airlines can haul first-class mail profitably for 18 to 26 cents a ton-mile. The Post Office is now paying them 45 to 53 cents a ton-mile . . . The Maritime Board will approve four new luxury passenger liners, subsidized by Uncle Sam, for Grace and Moore-McCormack.

PARNELL THOMAS CAMPAIGNS

Up in northern New Jersey, an ex-congressmen who is also an ex-convict is staging a vociferous campaign to go back to Washington. He is Parnell Thomas, Republican, who pleaded guilty to taking kickback funds and served a stretch in the federal penitentiary — though soft-hearted Harry Truman later pardoned him and even forgave his $10,000 fine.

Thomas now claims he was railroaded by those in Washington who did not like the way he fought Communists, and demands that every "patriotic man and woman" in his district send him back to Washington so that he can get back at the people who sent him to jail.

While the ex-congressman is raising a lot of fuss, his opponent, Congressman William R. Widnall, is conducting a quiet, hard-working campaign, saying little, but meeting a lot of people. Widnall is the Republican elected to Parnell Thomas' seat after Parnell went to jail.

Thomas now accuses Widnall of being a do-nothing congressman. One thing Widnall doesn't do is take the taxpayers' money. Other than that, he has been working hard in Washington and has a good record. He returns to his district on week ends to conduct his campaign against the blustering Thomas.

So far political soundings in northern New Jersey indicate that Widnall will be easily re-elected. The chief thing he is worried about, however, is that non-New Jerseyites will criticize Thomas. Widnall feels that if outsiders make a martyr of Thomas, New Jerseyites may rally to his support. Widnall, himself, incidentally, is simply ignoring the man who is making so many blistering charges.

Choppy Hair Cut is Latest Beauty Craze

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — The newest beauty craze is a choppy hair cut.

The jagged, close-cropped locks adopted by Audrey Hepburn as the watery heroine in "Ondine" and by explosive Renee Jeanmaire, the French ballet dancer started in "The Girl In Pink Tights" threaten to become a national fad.

Hair stylists say the "little boy" cut is being forced on them by popular demand. The trick, from a stylist's viewpoint, is to make the cut look as if the customer had done it herself with the hedge clippers.

Miss Hepburn, a remote and independent beauty who won the year's two top dramatic awards, does cut her hair herself. Her Academy Award winning performance as a princess in "Roman Holiday" was filmed when she had fluffy bangs and a soft bob. Then she came East to start rehearsals for "Ondine," a part that won her the Antoinette Perry Award as the year's top stage actress, and off went the curls.

Renee Jeanmaire gets the credit or the blame, depending on one's point of view for getting there first with the least hair. She cut hers off four years ago to dance the unconventional and sexy title role in "Carmen" in Roland Petit's Ballet De Paris.

"Now I don't want to let it grow," Jeanmaire said. "I am recognized by my hair cut."

Jeanmaire has hers trimmed every other week by Michel, a leading hair stylist, and washes it herself every day, dousing it liberally with baby oil while still wet so it lies flat and shiny.

Miss Hepburn allows herself longer bangs, so she can have a few curls around her face if she wishes. She usually appears with the bangs brushed forward in a straight, jagged fringe, however. The cut is brushed forward from the crown of her head to give that new, flat-topped look.

Men have been overheard to describe hair cuts copied from these two young Broadway sensations as "peeled onions, barber school bobs and hatchet jobs."

It's only undisputed advantage is seasonal.

It's real cool.

Though Paris stresses the tiny hat this spring, designers also show some medium brims. Dotted black-and-white surah is used (left) for Breton by Jacques Fath. This same designer does tiny toque in flag blue felt (right) that is typical of the doll-sized hat worn straight across the brows. Household Hints

Acid foods, such as citrus fruits and tomatoes, will leave permanent dull spots on porcelain enamel surfaces if allowed to stand long. Should any spill on your enamel equipment, quickly wipe up with damp cloth.

* * *

Food left on the blade of a can opener may spoil and contaminate the other foods. So keep your can opener clean by washing with soap and hot water after each using.

* * *

After packing away winter clothes, you should empty your closets completely and wipe walls, shelves and floors with a sudsy cloth. And don't forget to clean shoe, clothes and hat containers.

* * *

Organize to make dish washing easy. Keep space on either side of sink clear. Immediately after dinner, scrape and stack dishes at right. Then wash glassware and silver, stack at left and put dishes in water. While dishes soak, dry glasses and silver. Wash dishes, rinse, and rack to drip dry. Let pots soak while you relax.

* * *

Keep left-over cake fresh by covering the cut portion with waxed paper. Punch a few toothpicks through the paper to secure it.

* * *

To eliminate waste when measuring molasses, grease the cup lightly.

* * *

Keep all dusty and oily cleaning rags in a tightly covered tin can to prevent them from igniting spontaneously.

* * *

One way to prevent spilling accidents during a children's party is make gay plastic coveralls as favors for the tots. Decorate them with crude animal cutouts or flowers to appeal to the youngsters. Then, when ice cream gets spilled, a soapy cloth will take care of the damage.

* * *

If a pot holder or some other small item is set ablaze, you can extinguish it with baking soda. The carbon dioxide that's thrown off when bakin gsoda is thrown off when baking soda is thrown on the fire cuts off the oxygen that's necessary for combustion.

* * *

After laundering blankets, raise the nap by brushing them with either a wire-bristled pet brush or a nylon hair brush. The latter can also be used to raise the nap of corduroy and knitted garments.

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Close-ups and Longshots: It's a surprise to Marie Wilson that she's being tagged as a Duse because of the added pathos she's being called upon to show as the new Irma, and because her surprise emoting in "Marry Me Again," with Robert Cummings.

But even with the acting plum of the year, as the star of James M. Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella" on TV's "Omnibus," Marie's ahgeeing it:

"Television forces you to be a good actress. You have to use everything you've ever known and lots you don't realize you know. I don't have big dreams about Academy awards.

"If I can just make a living following in Gracie Allen's footsteps, I'll be very proud. That's good enough for me."

Jimmy Stewart is answering the critics who charged that a bit of make-up could have made him look more like the famed musician in "The Glenn Miller Story."

Jimmy's theory:

"Mrs. Miller said that Glenn and I were similar in general movement. I don't think it's important to try to look like the man you're portraying. You spend all your time trying to look the part and there's no time to concentrate on acting.

"I think you trap yourself that way. You're being a parrot — a mimic — not an actor."

* * *

Sultry, dark-eyed Roberta Haynes asked Columbia to tear up her contract after losing out to Donna Reed for the hoyden role in "From Here to Eternity."

Discouraged now about career? Not Roberta, who says:

"I'll never give up. I think I'm a good actress. But I also think I create excitement by my physical presence, and that's what makes a star."

TRUE—NOT FALSE

Pier Angeli about a trip to Italy:

"Big crowds meet me at the airport. They say to me that they hear all stars in Hollywood wear false things and do I wear false things? I say to them that it's all publicity, that only some girls in Hollywood wear false things and that I do not wear them. They say they are very glad and they are happy."

Mona Freeman hasn't made a movie in more than a year, but she's denying that she's bored about her career or that she's thinking of chucking the marquee glory for marriage.

She's still under contract to RKO, and says: "I think they're trying to wear me down. They're hoping that they can finally give me something that isn't good and that I'll be desperate enough to take it. What I want is a good role in a good movie."

* * *

Melinda Markey recently costarred with Mama Joan in a telefilm, "You're Only Young Once," for Bing Crosby Enterprises, and she's confessing:

"I thought I'd never get through it. We had been on the stage together, but facing a camera together—that's different. I was scared stiff at the idea of working with mother. She's my toughest critic. I won't be afraid of anything now."

AGING BY DEGREES

Department of Eccentricity: Dr. Edith Sitwell, the bizarre British lady of letters brought to Hollywood by Columbia studio to adapt her own "Fanfare for Elizabeth" for the screen, always checks the temperature before telling anyone her age. If the thermometer reads 80 degrees, Dr. Sitwell owns up to being 80. When it's 101, that's her age at the moment.

Clark Gable is selling the big San Fernando Valley home and its memories of Sylvia Ashley. He'll resettle in Arizona.

Ricardo Montalban has been batting 1.000 at MGM as a romantic vis-a-vis to Lana Turner, Esther Williams, Jane Powell, Shelley Winters and other celluloid queens. The Latin's wordage on making love in front of a camera:

"I was never scared. When you work with big stars like Lana, you know something is expected of you by the public. You have to measure up to her. So you assume an attitude, you think more on a romantic basis and you give the love scenes more. You can't show any self-doubt about yourself as a movie lover."

This is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones: Harold Laing, male star of the long-run Broadway revival of "Pal Joey," decided to see about filling the role in the film version. When he asked for an appointment at the studio that will make the picture, the word came back from the inner sanctum of a top executive:

"I never heard of the guy."

Two Members of Shawneetown Faculty Submit Resignations

Two members of the Shawneetown Community consolidated school have submitted their resignations to the board of education effective at the end of the current school year.

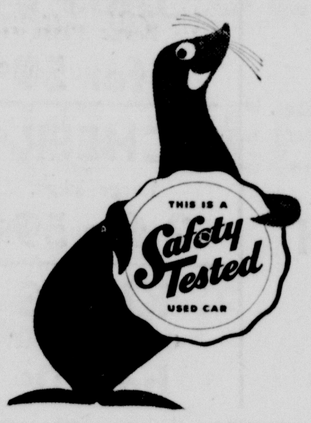

C. Raleigh Phillips, principal, and Larry Elliott, coach, have informed the board they will not be returning next year. Neither gave any reason for their action or of their future plans.

Phillips has served as principal at the school for the past four years, coming to Shawneetown from Centralia. He holds a master's degree in education from SIU.

Elliott assumed the duties of coach at the elementary school last year when Barney Genisio, moved up to coach the high school.

KILL WITH CARE

BY HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON

Copyright by Hugh Lawrence Nelson. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: An extortion plot led to the murders of Police Chief Otto Drover in Colorado City, and the mentally defective son of Mayor Stone. Lieut. Mark Richards and Jim Dunn, a private detective, who found the body of young Eddie Stone along with a confession to Drover's murder, have decided someone had used Eddie to kill the chief. Elmer Thorpe, a postman, said that two disguises were delivered to the abandoned filling station where Eddie's body was found and these had been addressed to Eddie, who sometimes got mail there. And the postman said he saw a car belonging to Tony Hughes, now the acting chief, near the station. Chief Hughes has a son, also named Tony, who is away, going to college.

* * *

XVI

Mr. Jones repeated what the officer had said. "I want my money back." He was gray-faced, around 60 and had in-ground grease in the pores of his skin.

"What money?" Richards demanded.

"The $2000. The extortion money I paid earlier tonight. I want it back."

"Tell us about it."

The story was exactly the same as the other two, save for the amount and the pay-off time which had been 7:30.

"It was still light then," Richards said. "Did you see anyone around the station?"

"No. At the time I'd have sworn it was deserted. I didn't hang around, of course. And I know now who was there. Heard the news on the radio. That Stone boy! Might have known it would come to this. I've always said a halfwit like that shouldn't be allowed to run around loose. Don't know what the police thought they were doing. Guess Eddie would have been put away long ago if he hadn't been the son of His Honor or our Mayor!"

"I suppose you'd recognize it?"

"Certainly I would. I certainly would. I marked every single one of those bills I paid out. I'll know them all right."

"How did you mark them?"

"Never you mind that," Jones said suspiciously. "I marked them, and I'd know them. You find my money and I'll show you!"

"You don't know anything else that'd help us?"

"No. Told you that. I want my money!"

"Get out," Mark ordered.

Jones goggled at him.

"Get out," Richards went on. "Leave your name with the man at the switchboard. We'll take up your claim when the money's found."

"You're in cahoots with Mayor Stone," Jones yelled. "I'll sue! It's Stone's fault for letting that halfwit run loose. I'll drag him through the courts. I'll sue him for every dollar!"

"You mind, Jim?" Mark nodded toward the door.

Jim held it open. Mark was out of his chair fast, collared Jones, gave him the bum's rush down the corridor.

"I want my money! I'll sue!" Jim could hear the voice get fainter down the hall.

* * *

By 2:30, when Chief Hughes returned to headquarters, two other victims of the extortion pay-off had put in their appearance, and laid claims to varying sums of money. They too were unable to give any helpful information.

Chief Hughes went directly to his office, was slumped in his chair when Mark and Jim came in.

"We finally got Ed to sleep," he said. "It was terrible. We finally had to get Dr. Pardon to give him something. It—well, it was terrible."

"Did you ask him any questions?"

"Look here, Richards, Ed Stone is my best friend. He was shocked, practically out of his mind over this terrible thing."

"You going to go on being chief of police, or are you going to resign?" Richards asked.

"Resign? Why should I resign? I'll tell you one thing, young man. I've never quit under fire in my life." Some of the bombasticity returned to Hughes' voice.

"Some things have come up," Mark said bluntly. "I want to know how I stand. I want to know whether I'm talking to the chief of police—my superior. Or whether I'm talking to the best friend of Ed Stone and a father?"

"I—well, what's the difference? Why can't I be all three?"

"We can find out pretty quickly," Mark said. "I told you some things have come up. Your car was seen several times this last week near the filling station where Eddie Stone's body was found."

* * *

Hughes' eyes clouded with a film of thought. "Wait a minute. My wife and I call on Ed quite often. I—well, I don't know whether you realize it or not, but Eddie Stone was mad about cars. I mean he'd jump in one and drive it off every chance he got."

"I know that," Richards said. "We've had to pick him up a couple of times. He drives all right—did drive, that is. But we couldn't have him driving. Here's a point though. You knew about Eddie's weakness for driving automobiles. So you'd be extra careful about leaving your keys in the ignition when you parked by Stone's place."

"That's correct. But it still doesn't eliminate the possibility that I—or my wife—might have been careless. At least I can tell you for certain, I have not driven or parked my car anywhere near that filling station in the last few weeks."

Jim Dunn broke in. "Was your son friendly with Eddie Stone?"

Hughes looked at Jim as if he had just slithered out from under a rock. "Tony? My son? What are you insinuating now?"

"Just asking," Jim said. "You and your wife are such friends of the mayor's, I wondered."

"You surely know of Eddie Stone's mental state. What would he and my son have in common?" Hughes snapped.

Stratton Names Superintendents Of Two Hospitals

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton today appointed new superintendents of the Dixon State School, Dixon, and the Illinois Security Hospital, Menard.

Robert E. Wallace, 31, Alton, was chosen as superintendent of the Dixon institution.

E. J. Uffelman, 49, Chester, was named superintendent of the Menard hospital.

Wallace succeeds Dr. Charles K. Bush, who has been serving both as superintendent of the Dixon school and acting superintendent of Manteno State Hospital.

Wallace was an officer in the Army medical administrative corps from 1943 to 1946. The governor's office said he has several years' experience in hospital administration.

Uffelman, former mayor of Chester and ex-sheriff of Randolph county, is president of a Chester ready-mixed concrete firm. He replaces Dr. E. R. May, acting Menard superintendent for 15 months.

The governor's office said May had been serving in that capacity "only as an accommodation" to the state and will return to private medical practice.

Stratton also said that Dr. Jacob O. Hoffman will serve as physician for the Menard Security Hospital, and Dr. William H. Haines and Dr. Paul Hletko will continue to give psychiatric services.

Luxembourg Ratifies European Army

LUXEMBOURG (AP)—The parliament of this grand duchy today ratified the European army treaty, leaving France and Italy as the two holdouts in the six-nation pact.

The vote was 46 to 4 with only the Communists voting against it.

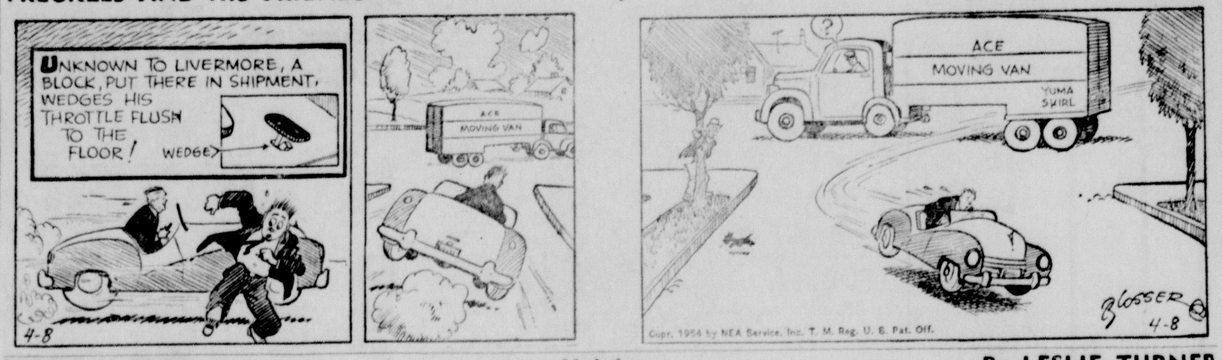

The parliaments of West Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands also have ratified the plan to set up a European Defense Community. But France and Italy have taken no parliamentary action since the treaty was signed in May, 1952.

HTHS Student Panel Presents Program At County Historical Society Meeting

Louis Aaron, president, opened the meeting of the Saline County Historical society at the Library Tuesday night by introducing Mrs. Naomi Shain who welcomed the following new members: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bosket, Mr. and Mrs. Don Scott, Miss Imogene Allen, Mrs. Edward Harned, J. D. Morse and Herbert Dixon.

During the business meeting Mrs. Madeline Holdaway reported on the program for the preservation of the Old State bank in Shawneetown. At the present time this will mean repairing the roof and putting up new gutters to prevent further deterioration of the historical structure. The program was confirmed in a letter from Robert G. Miley.

J. Ward Barnes and Fred Wasson and Mrs. Holdaway compose the committee for the project.

William H. Farley asked the cooperation of the society in planning and directing historical and scenic tours of this area for the Edwards County Historical society and the Central Illinois Rock Hounds association.

The program for the evening, "Are We Heading for a Depression?" was presented as a panel by the American History students of Miss Alvina Shestak.

Judy Belt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Belt, was panel leader and introduced Mona Wickham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corby Wickham, who gave a brief history of our economic depressions. She recalled eight major depressions in our history and gave a summary of each.

Charles Polk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Polk, spoke on "Unemployment and Business Cycles." He pointed out that the business cycle seems to repeat itself every twenty years. However, New Deal policies have tended to stabilize economics so that this cycle is no longer accurate.

Judith Morse, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Summerville, answered the following questions: "Can we, will we, and when will we fall from our present level of prosperity?" She presented reasons why a depression is probable.

Jim Durham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Durham, spoke on the subject, "Any Setback Will be a Mild One." He showed how the government spending program, unemployment insurance, old age pension system, and government aids to business and agriculture, along with the increasing birth rate of our nation, which in turn create a demand, are greater guarantees against a major depression.

An account of the Easter service at Bald Knob was given by Robin Wathen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wathen. She recalled its beginning 177 years ago by Wayman Presley of Makanda and described the proposed 150 foot cross, designed by Henry Rush, which will be built on the summit of the mountain. Paul M. Kihlmire spoke of the work of the forestry department in connection with the Bald Knob service.

In keeping with Easter the tea table was decorated with jonquils Keep all your dusty and oily and hand-painted eggs. Near the table ends were placed intricate, hand wrought, tin roosters from Mexico.

Serving on the hospitality committee were Mrs. Ed Heister, Mrs. Madeline Holdaway, Mrs. Ila Choisser and Mrs. G. O. Davenport.

Counterfeit $10 Bill Used to Buy Ticket To Police Circus

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Sheepish police confessed today that someone bought tickets to their annual circus with a counterfeit $10 bill.

The bill turned up when Patrolman Henry Bergfeld, treasurer of the Police Relief Association, deposited funds in the Southwest Bank.

I. A. Long, president of the police board, is president of the bank.

Wholesale Food Prices Show First Decline In Two Months

NEW YORK (AP) — Wholesale food prices this week registered the first decline in over two months, according to the Dun & Bradstreet Inc. index released today.

The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index on April 6 eased 2 cents to $7.40 from the previous week's record high of $7.42. This was the first decline since the index fell 1 cent to $7.01 on Feb. 3.

The latest figure compared with $6.32 in the like 1953 week and was 24.2 per cent above the pre-Korea mark of $5.96.

DEAD ON YOUR FEET?

Do you suffer from fatigue, nervousness, poor appetite, digestive upsets, insomnia, constipation?

These symptoms if due to a vitamin deficiency occur only when daily intake of vitamins B_1, B_2, and niacin is less than minimum daily requirements over a prolonged period. In themselves, they do not prove a dietary deficiency as they may have other causes or be due to functional conditions.

The basic cause of your trouble may be iron-and-vitamin starvation over a prolonged period. BEXEL, the Special high-potency Formula, supplies supplementary quantities of iron for rich red blood . . . pouring new strength and energy into your entire body.

Each wonder-working BEXEL capsule gives you more than 5 times the daily minimum requirements of blood-building iron; more than the daily minimum requirements of all the essential B-vitamins plus Vitamin B_{12} plus trace minerals.

Marines' Unified Combat Training Is One Year Old

MARINE CORPS AIR STATION, KANEOHE BAY, T. H. — (UP) — A unique Marine Corps experiment —the only one in USMC history to bring both air and ground forces together as a single combat team—has completed its first year of training.

During its operation, the 1st Provisional Marine Air-Ground Task Force, a "this-is-the-way-it's-done-in-combat" training unit, has dropped the title of "experiment" and earned official recognition as an asset to the Marine Corps.

Since its organization in February, 1953, the ex-experiment has seen some 8,000 Leathernecks pass through its portals as graduates of the most closely coordinated air-ground training program the corps can offer.

Korean Vets

The "experimental" task force went into actual active training in mid-February, 1953, when 92 battle-hardened Marines were flown directly from the Korean front to form its headquarters company.

The body of the task force took shape when ground units from Camp Pendleton, Calif., and jet-equipped fighter-bomber squadrons from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif., began arriving from the mainland to serve under the command of Brig. Gen. James P. Riseley, USMC. It marked the first time in Marine Corps history that air and ground forces were brought together under a unified command.

"Up until now, air and ground units have always been stationed miles apart, both in training and actual combat," said the current task force commander, Col. Boecker C. Batterson, as he summed up the entire program.

Equality

"Coordination was a problem because of the long-distance channels which had to be maintained. Here, we operate under a single roof and can thresh out mutual problems with more efficiency and foresight."

The task force is operated on a "participation basis," with air and ground officers equally divided. In fact, all staff sections are equally manned to maintain the air-ground balance in planning and operation.

Many new beach landing techniques are being given to the task force to be enlarged upon and perfected.

For example, exercises in night close air support, in which Panther jet-fighter-bombers cover the landing troops are a regular part of training.

Helicopter Landings

This is an entirely new concept in the beach landings field. It was pioneered by Marine fliers in Korea and is being expanded and perfected here.

Battle-clad Marines leaping from low and slow-flying helicopters for raids behind enemy lines is another innovation in beach landings, and, although it may sound somewhat like a "superman" stunt it is another regular part of the task force's varied training program.

Amphibious maneuvers and beach landings from rubber boats are also part of the daily agenda. Submarine landings are planned to take up a large part of the spring training.

Shuman Urges Farmers to Vote

CHICAGO (UP) — Charles B. Shuman, president of the Illinois Agricultural Assn., urged farmers today to vote in the primary election next Tuesday.

"Mediocrity in government is a direct result of the indifference of voters," Shuman said. "We must make sure the candidates running in the fall general election are the candidates we have chosen by making our wishes known in the primary."

St. Luke's, Nation's Oldest Church, Will Recapture History on Easter

By NEA Service

SMITHFIELD, Va.—(NEA)—The nation's oldest church near this historic village is planning an Easter sunrise service to recapture some of the flavor of the original Jamestown settlement of 1607.

For the first worshippers of St. Luke's, originally known as the "Old Brick Church," may have included witnesses of the proceedings of the Virginia Assembly. Some may have remembered the baptism of Pocohontas in 1613.

It's also possible that other church members heard Capt. John Smith tell the dramatic story of his rescue, with the help of Pocohontas, from Powhatan. Part of the original congregation consisted of survivors of the Indian massacre of 1622 that wiped out nearly one-third of the Virginia settlers.

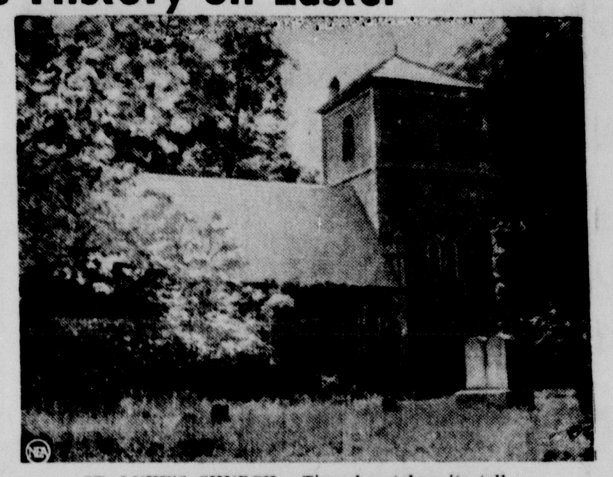

* * *

St. Luke's has often been called "the cradle of Christianity" in this country. Its picturesque belfry and its buttressed walls with their traceried windows, a rare example of Gothic architecture, still stand very much as they stood when built more than three centuries ago across the river from Jamestown.

Although the church went undamaged through Bacon's Rebellion of 1676, some changes took place during the years of the Revolution.

In 1777 the Vestry was dissolved, and after the Church of Virginia was disestablished in 1785, St. Luke's was used for only occasional serivces during the next 40 years.

From 1821 until 1836 the church was used regularly, but then abandoned after another church was built nearby. In 1887 a summer storm caved in the roof. But the Rev. Davis Barr raised money for the repairs and the edifice was reroofed and repaired during the years 1889-1894.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH: Time has taken its toll.

* * *

Since that time the church has been used intermittently for summer services, and once again time has taken its toll on one of the oldest structures in the United States. One wall of the nave is bulging dangerously, and some of the bricks and mortar are crumbling badly.

Recently, a group of prominent Americans took action to prevent St. Luke's from falling into inevitable ruin. They launched a nationwide campaign to raise funds to restore this unique building and preserve it as a national shrine.

The first objectives of the group are to check the decay of the church and to repair its aged structure. Then, the necessary restorations will be made, both inside and out, to return the building as nearly as possible to its original appearance.

As Henry Mason Day, president of the restoration organization, put it: "It would be hard to overstate the importance of St. Luke's both as a symbol and as a relic of this country's earliest past. It is the only surviving building in the Jamestown area that bears witness to the spiritual strength that sustained the first generation or two of settlers."

Federal judges are appointed for life by the President, with the approval of the Senate.
